A DICTIONARY OF THE ECONOMIC PRODUCTS OF INDIA.

By Dr. Geo. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index is practically a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Index to ditto ditto, 8vo. Rs. 2. (4s.)

riage with Sudhamayi put all ideas of reform out of his head, and he almost regretted that he had not married earlier in life. He began to love his wife dearly, but the girl who had bestowed her heart on Bhavesa, her husband's nephew, was unable to return his love. A letter addressed by her to Bhavesa accidentally fell into Atul's hand and led to the discovery of her passion for him. The discovery made the girl's life miserable and accelerated the moral downfall of the husband, who in his desire to be avenged on the world became indifferent as to how he treated those whom destiny had placed in his power. At last Sudhamayi made a final effort to forget her early love and be faithful to her husband. She thought she would, if forgiven, turn over a new leaf in her life. But her husband had lost all faith in woman, and treated her overtures with contempt and derision. The girl took this to heart and committed suicide. The incident caused only a temporary qualm of conscience in Atul, and failed to have any lasting effect on his character and conduct; which grew worse every day until the moral wreck of the man was complete. The delineation of the characters of Atul, Sudhamayi and Bhavesa discloses considerable power in the writer. The style of the book is, on the whole, fairly good.

Is the story of a Sikh volunteer's adventures in the Afridi country. Nehalchand joined the Afridi expedition of 1898 as a volunteer from Pétalá.
One evening after hostilities had commenced he chanced to come across an Afridi girl and her companion, and rescued them from a party of Gurkha soldiers into whose hands they had fallen. He next voluntarily escorted them to a place of safety and took his rest for the night in a cave which was shown to him. The girl on taking her leave, gave Nehal, out of gratitude, a takti or a triangular piece of metal, which she wore on her neck, as a sort of passport, which was to secure him against molestation at the hands of her countrymen. But this act excited the jealousy of her companion Abdul, who was an aspirant after her hand, and when the morning dawned Nehalchand found himself a prisoner at the hands of the Afridi. He was taken to the chief, whose daughter Hamida he had saved from dishonour, charged with the theft of the takti, and condemned to be shot. Of the three guns fired at him, two had bullets previously extracted out of them by Hamida, and it was the shot from the third gun, which was fired by Abdul that wounded Nehalchand and he was left for dead. Secretly removed to Hamid's quarters, he was nursed to recovery by the girl and conveyed by her through a secret passage to the frontiers of the Afridi country. Here they stopped for a talk and revealed their passion for each other. Nehalchand was for taking the girl home and marrying her according to the rites of the Sikh religion. But Hamida would not allow the claims of love to interfere with her duty by her father, country and religion, and rejected her lover's proposal with firmness and indignation. At last as they were about to part, the ungrateful Abdul, who had followed them both unperceived, hurled a lance at Nehal; but Hamida interposed, and received a mortal wound. Thereupon she turned on Abdul and stabbed him to death. Their death closed the scene and Nehalchand started for the British camp with a heavy heart. The author is not without power, and the characters of Nehalchand and Hamida are fairly well drawn. The book is written in a racy, vigorous, though incorrect and Anglified, style.

" 28th	117	16mo d. or.	1st...	1,000	ditto	Viveśvar Sen, 75-2, Bhuvan Mohan Sarkar's Lane, Calcutta	Is a story of disappointed love told in highly emotional and imaginative prose. The author, or whoever he may be, who tells the story in the first person, seems to have secretly made love to a Brahmin girl and won her heart. At last the discovery of the love affair put a stop to their secret interviews, and led to increased restrictions being put on the movements of the girl by her elder brother. As they were of different castes their marriage was out of the question, and in vain did they cherish their passion for each other until the girl pined away, and nothing was left for her unfortunate lover but to harp on his ill luck and disappointment and to vent his spleen on a social system, which by putting a stop to intermarriages of castes, has proved the root of all his misfortunes. The book, though containing here and there passages which arrest attention on account of the poetry which they contain, illustrates the vices of spinning out a theme and the affectation of false sentimentalism, which have become quite a feature of the Bengali literature of the day	724
Oct. 3rd	509	8vo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 8 0	Saif Chandra Ray Chaudhuri Baraha Nagar.	Attempts to trace the history of the social changes in Bengal, through the re-establishment of Brahmanism by Adishu, the institution of Kulina by Ballal, the establishment of a Kayastha community at Bāklā in East Bengal by Danujamardan, the reformation of Brahman and Kayastha communities of Rār and Vasendra during the 15th and the 16th century by Udayan, Devivar, Paramananda Ray and Parandar Khan, the rise and fall of Pratāpāditya and the constitution of an independent Kayastha community by him at Jessore, the disruption of that community on his death and the establishment on its ruin of the Kayastha families of Punda and Tāki. Excepting the earlier chapters, the book may be regarded as an account of the various Kayastha families of Bengal, which came into prominence from time to time from the death of Lakshmin Sen down to the establishment of British rule in the country; and references to historical and social matters found in it are, speaking generally, only incidental. The writer is a Kayastha by caste and a scion of the Munsi family of Tāki, and this accounts for his attempt to treat his castemen as possessing social rank footing almost equal to that of the Brahmans in 1 for the comparatively large space which the history of the Munsi family occupies in it. Though the history and chronology of the early part of the book will not bear examination, it contains nevertheless an interesting mass of information which may be turned to account by the future historian of Bengal.	724

.....	130	1st...	ditto ...	0 12 0	States that āmitva, egoism or self-love, is the root of all evil in this world, and hence its annihilation is taught in the śāstras as the means of attaining the summum bonum. Now, this annihilation can be effected not only by foregoing all love of self, but also by extending it indefinitely to non-self; or in other words, not only by not loving self, but also by loving others like self. And all pre-eminently Hindu institutions like the five sacrifices, the four āśramas and the four castes have all been framed with a view to attaining this very object, and lead when the duties and injunctions relating thereto are obeyed in practice, to more or less liberalisation of a person's sympathies and the increase of love for others. Let all Hindus, therefore, remember this cardinal teaching of the śāstras and carry it out in life by consecrating themselves to the service of their fellow-creatures. The book is exceedingly well-written, and its altruistic teaching cannot fail to have a salutary and ennobling effect on the reader.	7271

Sept. 29th	171	1st...	2,200	ditto ...	2 0 0	P. C. Das.	Is an interesting and eventful biography of the Bengali Lieutenant in the Brazilian Army named Sures Viswas, describing his early life, conversion to Christianity, sojourn in various lands in quest of service, struggles in London, in the course of which he served successively as a news-boy, a street porter, a pedlar and a wild beast-tamer, also of his journey to Buenos Ayres, when he joined the Brazilian Army, his bravery on the field of battle, promotion to a Lieutenantship and brilliant success in the battle of Natheroy. The book derives its main interest from the fact of its being the life of a Bengali, so unique in character and so unlike that of his peaceful and ease-loving countrymen. Written in a simple style.	4584

July 5th	20	8vo cr.	1st...	1,000	ditto	Teaches that all religious instruction in order to be real and efficacious must flow from a Sat Guru (good preceptor), who like Jesus and Chaitanya himself derived it from the same source. The Sat Guru is like the sun, and from him alone must emanate all vivifying rays of spiritual knowledge and instruction. It is a mistake to think that one can derive true knowledge from the Gospel or the sāstras without the interposition of a Sat Guru. For no one can read their true meaning without his help. The belief that salvation is to come after death is a myth. For when it really comes it comes in this very life and those receiving it realise it in their consciousness. The author is a follower of Chaitanya, and has set up as a religious teacher, having a number of disciples among low caste people.	46

The substance of this work may be given in the following words:—"Worship in love God who is formless and yet all the forms, who is all that moves and all that moves not, who is the all-comprehending Being expressed as light. Facing the sun and moon, when they rise and when they set, bow down to Him, the author of good, uniting yourselves to His all-comprehending completeness. Let each one out of his earthly possessions feed God in His form of fire and fulfil the needs of all his creatures. Endeavour always to keep the mind, body, earth, water, and air pure and clean. This is pleasant in the sight of God and the duty of all men, especially those in power. Thus acting man will be happy now and for ever. Nothing more is required of any one. Too many ceremonies lead to suffering."	46

Is a religious allegory in verse by Jagatram Dâs, describing a soul's struggles with the forces of ignorance and his attainment of true knowledge at the end. The author was a Brahmin by caste and Vaishnav of the Râmâyât sect by religion. The doctrines taught by him in the course of the book are those of metempsychosis and the operation of the kârmic law in the evolution of higher from the lower forms of birth. As a Vaishnav, he naturally gives to bhakti (love of God) the highest place among the means of attaining perfect self-culture.	2639

tion of Heritage in the Vivāda Ratnākara, which is an exhaustive and authoritative compilation on the civil and criminal law of the Hindus. It was prepared by Chandrasevar Thākura, who was Peace and War Minister to the King Haradewa of Mithilā and who was, according to his own account, living in the early part of the 14th century. The English introduction to the translation gives an account of the codes of Manu and Yajñavalkya, dwells on some of the distinctive features of Hindu law and jurisprudence, and incidentally touches on matters relating to the administration of justice in this country by English Judges. Speaking generally the translators have done their work fairly well, and the book cannot fail to be a substantive help in the elucidation of the Hindu Law of Inheritance in the Mithilā School.
Sept. 5th	120	8vo dfo.	1st...	120	ditto	The author, Calcutta.	Being notes on the comparative and historical relations of Vaishnavism and Christianity, furnishing instances, as the writer thinks, of an actual historical contact between the two cults in the fourth or the fifth century of the Christian era. The writer thinks that Vaishnavism has developed on lines of its own, viz., on the basis of a half-philosophical, half-mythological synthesis of the Sāṅkhya and Vedānta systems, while Christianity very early forsook Platonism, Neo-platonism and Gnosticism, and received its philosophical mould from the metaphysical and ontological scheme of Aristotle, as understood by schoolmen and Arabian philosophers; that the Christian experiences of Indian Vaishnavas served to liberalise and universalise their faith, and perhaps also to impart a character of jealous, if not militant, unitarianism (ekāntibhāva) to the cult of Krishna-worship. The attempt made in the Sāṅdilya Sūtra to support the Ekānti doctrine by the authority of the Gītā goes to show that, as a feature of Vaishnavism, such unitarianism needed the countenance of the canonical Hindu scriptures. But it is at the same time clear that not a single dogma or rite was borrowed by Indian Vaishnavas from primitive Christianity. As comparative researches, when not supplemented by the historic method and the study of origin and development, are of no value in the determination of historical relations, the writer professes to have applied comparison and analogy under the necessary corrections, and arrived at the conclusion that while Vaishnavism and Christianity have originated and developed in practical independence of each other, they must be acknowledged to be different manifestations in different race histories of the same religious idea or type. The introductory remarks on the alleged insufficiency of the ordinary historic method of the West to grapple with the complexities of social phenomena, the corrections which the writer proposes to apply to it, so as to make it fit for the investigation of such phenomena, the deficiencies and shortcomings of the modern European philosophy and the causes, which bar its further progress and the part which, as the author thinks, Vaishnavism is destined to play in the European renaissance of the coming century, show the depth and range of his reading and bespeak an originality of conception and breadth of view, which are really striking. His main position about an historical contact between the two cults must, nevertheless, be pronounced improbable and unproved.	130

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newnan's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—(LAND REVENUE.)

NOTIFICATION—No. 1967L.R.

The 10th April 1900.—In exercise of the powers vested in him by section 10 of the Sonthal Parganas Settlement Regulation, III of 1872, and section 30 of the Sonthal Parganas Rent Regulations, II of 1886, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to prescribe the following rules for the conduct of settlement proceedings under the said Regulations, in supersession of all previous rules on the subject:—

I.—All proceedings and orders of Assistant Settlement Officers shall be subject to the supervision and control of and appeal to the Settlement Officer.

II.—Proceedings and orders of the Settlement Officer shall be subject to the supervision and control of and appeal to the Commissioner.

III.—The conduct of settlement operations shall be under the general supervision of the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal, who will be an advising officer intervening between the Deputy Commissioner and the Commissioner.

IV.—Survey operations will be under the general supervision of the Superintendent of Settlement-Surveys, Bengal, co-operating as an advising officer with the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.

V.—Assistant Settlement Officers and Settlement Officers shall have all the powers of a Sonthal Parganas Civil Court for the purpose of obtaining evidence, of disposing of objections to the survey and settlement proceedings, and of disposing of disputes on questions of right or title or other matters arising in connection with such proceedings.

VI.—A measurement shall ordinarily be made of all lands included in the villages declared to be under settlement; but if in the Settlement Officer's opinion the records of the last measurement are sufficiently correct to permit of a record-of-rights and settlement of rents being prepared from them, such records may be corrected without remeasurement.

VII.—The measurement staff shall be composed of Settlement Officer, Assistant Settlement Officers, kanungos, inspectors and aminas. The aminas shall, so far as possible, be local men.

VIII.—The exterior boundaries of the village shall be demarcated and measured and a map shall be prepared according to scale. All trijunction points and natural features on or near the boundary shall be noted in the field-book and map.

IX.—Trijunction points and as many points on the boundary besides as may be necessary shall be marked by boundary pillars. Stone pillars, blocks of stone or other suitable material shall be used.

X.—Within the village the cultivated land shall be measured field by field. All other lands shall also be measured and recorded in plots of convenient size. A field is defined to be all the land of one class, situated in one block, growing the same crop, and occupied by one raiyat or group of raiyats holding jointly.

XI.—The map of the village shall show in addition to the boundary the fields and plots as defined in the preceding rule.

XII.—After the completion of the village map, a khasra or field index will be prepared which will show for each plot number the name of the raiyat or other occupant, the area of the field, the crop, the classification for assessment, rights in trees and all relevant facts of possession.

XIII.—The khasra shall be written up on the field by the amins, and all entries as they are made shall be explained by them to the parties, so that any mistake may be corrected at once. Disputed entries will be left blank, and disputes will be entered in a separate list to be disposed of by the Settlement Officer, Assistant Settlement Officer or kanungo. The entries left blank will be afterwards filled up in accordance with the orders passed on the dispute list.

XIV.—Simultaneously with the writing of the khasra the amin will prepare a khatian of each holding in triplicate. One copy will be given to the raiyat, a second copy will be given to the headman, or in a khas village to the landlord, and the original will be retained as the working khatian and will form the basis from which the abstract khatian jamabandi of the village will be afterwards compiled. Separate khatians will be compiled for waste lands, village forest, grazing-grounds, roads, &c.

XV.—The khatians will be read over and explained to the raiyats a second time at attestation, and mistakes then brought to light will be corrected. Any objections that may be preferred to the entries in the khatians will be heard and disposed of at this stage. The new rents settled in accordance with the rules for the settlement of rents as sanctioned by Government will be announced to the raiyats at attestation, and will then be entered by the Revenue Officer in his own hand in the working khatians, and at the same time will be entered by his subordinates in the copies of the khatians already distributed to the raiyats and headmen or landlords.

XVI.—It shall be the duty of the Settlement Officer and Assistant Settlement Officers to enquire into the title of persons found in actual possession of lands which they have not acquired as jamabandi raiyats of the village or by right of inheritance and to enforce the orders which may be sanctioned by Government for the treatment of such occupants as may be found to be in illegal possession. Subject to the provisions of section 25, Regulation II of 1886, persons found in actual occupation, whose claim is not admitted, shall be dispossessed and the land resettled according to village rights. The Settlement Officer may, for the purposes of this rule, be vested with the powers of the Deputy Commissioner under section 25, Regulation II of 1886.

XVII.—The record-of-rights prepared under section 13, Regulation III of 1872, and referred to below as the settlement record, shall include the following documents:—

A.—The abstract khatian jamabandi.

B.—The record-of-rights and duties.

No. 487, dated Calcutta, the 30th March 1900.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following revised draft of a Notification, which it is proposed to issue in exercise of the powers conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), is published for the information of all persons likely to be affected thereby, and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration by the Governor General in Council on or after the 1st June 1900.

2. Any objection or suggestion, which may be received from any person with respect to the draft before the date aforesaid, will be considered by the Governor General in Council.

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

In exercise of the power conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following addition be made to Part III of the first schedule to the said Act:—

“6. Application of the test to viscous fluids or preparations, such as solutions of India-rubber in mineral naphtha, or thick paint made with that material:—

About a teaspoonful of the substance to be tested is placed in the cup, and the cover fitted with a thermometer is put on.

The cup thus prepared for the test is then cooled down until the thermometer indicates a temperature of 50° F. This may be accomplished either by placing the prepared cup in a refrigerator, or by immersing it up to its projecting collar in water, which is maintained at a sufficiently low temperature until the result specified has been obtained.

The prepared cup thus cooled is then transferred to the water bath, the temperature of which has previously been raised to 76° F. (The scale of the thermometer in the water bath should range from 60° to 180° F.)

The test is then applied as described in section 4 of this part. If no flash has taken place when the temperature in the cup has reached 75° the test need not be continued.

The temperature at which the flash occurs is the observed flashing point of the substance and, subject to correction of atmospheric pressure as prescribed in the Act, is the true flashing point.”

In such sum, if the Court thinks proper, the amount payable as travelling allowance may be included; but it should be understood that no party should be charged on account of any expense with any sum which is not actually incurred or chargeable by some authoritative-rule or legal enactment.

I am, at the same time, to say that although the rule has been formally cancelled in consequence of the repeal of Act XII of 1856, as the rate of the daily fee was fixed at Rs. 3 with the object of recouping Government for the cost of entertaining the Civil Court Amins on the fixed establishment, it is desirable that that rate should be adhered to when such Amins are employed.

Dated Calcutta, the 7th April 1900

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No 3583, dated the 9th March 1900, from the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, submitting with his remarks the report of the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta for the year 1899.

Establishment.—Dr. W. Forsyth held charge of the office of the Health Officer throughout the year Surgeon-Captain Clemesha, I.M.S., Dr. C Banks, and Dr. J. L. Hendley were appointed Assistant Health Officers of the port to assist in the inspection of crews and passengers of vessels leaving the port or arriving from plague-infected ports. Mrs. MacIntosh was appointed on the 28th May 1899 to inspect female passengers leaving the port.

2. Inspection of vessels.—The total number of inward and outward bound vessels inspected during the year was 2,217 against 2,168 in 1898 and 2,091 in 1897. The total number of vessels which arrived in the port was 1,231, of which 975 were inspected. There were 1,235 departures; but the number inspected was 1,242. This difference is accounted for by the fact that the arrivals registered in the Port Office do not take into account vessels of under 100 tons, while all such vessels are inspected under the Plague Regulations.

3. Sickness and mortality among European seamen.—The number of European seamen who arrived in the port was 19,647 against 20,401 in the previous year. The daily average in port was 1,200 against 1,232 in 1898. The total admissions into hospital amounted to 1,110 with 44 deaths, which gives a death rate per mille of 39·64 against 15·42 in the previous year; the quinquennial mean being 21·02. During the year the death rate has been higher than in the previous 14 years, the increase being under all heads. Including the deaths out of hospital, the death rate per mille was 50·00 against 22·72; 33·27; and 40·92 in the three preceding years. Of the admissions into hospital, nine were due to cholera, all of which were fatal. There were 65 admissions from bowel complaints, three of which were fatal. Under fevers there were 198 admissions with seven deaths. Small pox accounted for eight admissions with two deaths; sunstroke six admissions, with five deaths; and scurvy four admissions. There were eight cases of drowning during the year.

4. The following table shows the number of admissions into hospital from venereal diseases during the year 1899 and previous 10 years:—

				Admission.	Admission-rate per 1,000.
1889	186	114·3
1890	248	147·7
1891	185	129·7
1892	479	224·5
1893	386	185·4
1894	343	231·6
1895	342	238·9
1896	215	191·2
1897	239	198·8
1898	118	95·7
1899	188	156·6

5. Sickness and mortality among the native floating population.—The total number of deaths reported during the year was 125, of which 24 died in, and 101 out of, hospital. The figures for the previous year were 22 and 100. The death rate, 4·87 per mille, is higher than that of 1898, viz., 4·76. Of these deaths, 36 were from cholera; five from bowel complaints; 37 from fever; and 47 from other causes.

6. Pilgrim traffic.—No pilgrim ship sailed from Calcutta during the year under review, as this port is not a port of departure under the Act.

7. The S.S. Jeddah with pilgrims from Jeddah arrived at Diamond Harbour on the 15th May 1899, but owing to a misunderstanding the pilot of the vessel allowed the pilgrims to be landed before they were inspected by the Health Officer. Suitable notice was taken at the time of the pilot's action in the matter.

8. The S.S. Naderi with 517 pilgrims arrived at Diamond Harbour on the 2nd July 1899. Three hundred and ten pilgrims were landed after disinfection of their clothing by steam, and were despatched by rail under police escort to their destination. Two hundred and four Javanese pilgrims were kept on a flat moored in midstream, and transferred to a steamer bound for Singapore; their clothing was disinfected by steam; soiled and worn clothing, worn matting, and sacking, &c., were destroyed, the articles being replaced by new clothing, &c.

9. During the voyage of the Naderi there were three deaths—one from dysentery; one from fever and convulsions; and one from heart disease.

10. The S.S. Mozaffari arrived at Diamond Harbour on the 7th August 1899, with 572 pilgrims all well. Similar precautions were also adopted in the case of this vessel. During the voyage there were nine deaths from bronchitis, diarrhoea, dysentery, heart disease, paralysis, phthisis and general debility.

11. Plague.—As stated in paragraph 7 of this Department's Resolution No. 656 Marine, dated the 5th April 1899, rules for quarantine against plague and for the medical inspection, isolation, observation, and surveillance of persons suffering from that disease were sanctioned by this Government in August 1897. Under these rules the arrival of all vessels from plague-infected ports had to be telegraphed to the Health Officer, and all vessels anchored at Diamond Harbour, if there were a case of plague on board, and at Matiabruj, if there were no such case.

12. Three hundred and nine vessels arrived during the year from the plague-infected ports of Bombay, Karachi, Honkong, Penang, Mauritius, and the Hedjaz. No case of plague was found on any of these vessels.

13. Corpses and carcasses found floating on the river.—The number of corpses found floating on the river shows a small increase, the figure being 117 against 94 in the previous year. The number of carcasses was 1,686 against 2,204 in 1898—a substantial decrease.

14. Water supply.—Municipal filtered water was supplied to the shipping throughout the year, and no complaints regarding the quality or quantity supplied were made.

15. Food complaints.—Four maunds of dried fish intended for the native crew of the S.S. Ulan Ferguson were condemned as unfit for food.

Four casks of flour and four casks of biscuits on board the ship Somali were examined at the request of the master and condemned; and a portion of the fish supplied by the contractor for the native crew of the S.S. Acara was also condemned.

16. Conservancy of cargo boats.—The duty of conducting the prosecutions against the manjees in the Police Court for keeping their boats in a filthy state was carried on by the River Police. One hundred and eighty two licensed cargo boats were found dirty, but it is stated that owing to the constant shifting of these boats, and to the giving of false names by the manjee or owner to the Inspector at the time of his inspection, the police were unable to trace out many of the boats, and thus many manjees escape prosecution and punishment.

17. This failure the Lieutenant-Governor is altogether unable to understand. All of these boats are numbered and registered, and there must be means of tracing them. But further the owner and his agent are plainly liable for any breach of the rules, and, if it is the case, as the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals states, that there is no abatement of nuisances and filth in connection with cargo boats, notwithstanding prosecutions and convictions, then it is the duty of the Health Officer to press the Commissioners to prosecute, not the manjees, but the owners of the boats.

18. Disinfection.—Twenty sea-going vessels and 23 country boats were disinfected during the year. Seven cases of human hair brought from Hongkong were disinfected by being steeped in corrosive sublimate solution.

19. Conservancy.—Five khalassis living in a shed on the south side of the outer dock died of cholera in March 1899. The shed in question was built by Messrs. Turner, Morrison and Company as a salt godown. On examination the Health Officer found the floor to be of various levels and the room badly ventilated, and he suggested that the floor be levelled, that ventilators be fixed in the corrugated zinc roof, and that circular built-up openings at either end be re-opened and protected by shades; that drinking water taps be fixed close to the quarters; and that a urinal be erected close by. These improvements were carried out.

20. The Health Officer reports that there are seven latrines for the use of the native public on the Calcutta side of the river, viz., four above the bridge, and three below it. Of the four latrines above the bridge, that at Juggernath Ghât is most frequented, but as it has only four seats it is hardly sufficient to meet the demands of the people, who are chiefly tenants of the Port Commissioners' lands. It is therefore suggested that either this latrine be enlarged and provided with more seats or that a separate latrine be provided on the tenanted land for their use.

21. The Health Officer also brings to notice that the Macfarlane's patent latrine recently erected at Koilah Ghât has three compartments. The compartment for native males has only five seats and five urinals, and these are not sufficient for the use of the large number of passengers who pass the night in the shed thrice a week, previous to their departure by the mail steamers for Burma and Rangoon; and as a result the passengers frequent the foreshore space beneath the landing stages. To remedy this, Dr. Forsyth suggests the erection of an additional latrine.

22. The Health Officer's suggestions on both these matters will be referred to the Port Commissioners, with a request that the proposals may be taken into their early consideration, and a report submitted to Government as to the steps taken.

23. The latrines in the Commissioners' dock at Kidderpore have now all been provided with water tanks for washing, and the nuisances noted under this head in the previous year have been greatly lessened.

RABI CROPS IN BENGAL, 1899-1900.

The following is published for general information.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Note on the outturn of the Rabi Crops in Bengal for 1899-1900.

Explanatory.—The present report furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of all kinds of rabi crops (both food and non-food), including wheat, sugarcane and oilseed crops, for which separate notes are issued, and such special crops as tobacco and opium, for which no separate reports are published.

2. Character of the season.—The rainfall in September was general in North and East Bengal, practically normal in Bihar, slightly below the normal in South-West Bengal, and much in defect in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. In October the rainfall was deficient everywhere, except in Orissa and East Bengal, where it was excessive. No rain fell in November in these provinces, except in the Darjeeling hills and in the Chittagong Division. In December also there was little or no rain. The fall in January was below the average everywhere, except in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, where it was greatly in excess, hailstorms doing considerable damage in many places in Bihar. In February there was general rain in Lower Bengal, but only a small fall in Orissa, Bihar and Chota Nagpur. In March the rainfall has been general and fairly well distributed. The season has not been, on the whole, favourable to the rabi crops, and it has proved disastrous to them in parts of Chota Nagpur.

3. Area sown.—The normal area has been revised by some District Officers, in consequence of which the Provincial total now stands at 14,513,400 acres against 14,895,400 shown in last year's report.

The area cultivated in all kinds of rabi crops this year is, as estimated by the District Officers, 13,840,000 acres as against 14,390,300 acres sown in 1898-99; the area under rabi food-crops standing at 10,036,000 acres against 10,278,000 acres cultivated last year; and that under rabi non-food crops at 3,804,000 acres as compared with 4,112,300 acres. Want of rain in the early part of the season accounts for the decrease in all cases.

4. Outturn.—Out of 45 districts, 4 districts only, viz., the 24-Parganas, Darjeeling, Saran, and Bhagalpur, expect a harvest above the normal, while a normal crop is looked for in two districts, viz., Backergunge and Manbhum. In all the remaining 39 districts the outturn will fall below the normal.

Of these latter, 13* districts estimate an outturn varying between 90 and 100 per cent., in 8† districts the estimate varies between 80 and 90, and in the remaining 18 districts it falls below

80. Bad crops are reported from Angul, Singhbhum and Palamau, while the rabi crops in Ranchi have been almost a total failure. According to the returns of the District Officers, the outturn of rabi food-crops in these provinces should be estimated at 88 per cent. of the normal as against an estimate of 100 per cent. last year, and that of non-food-crops at 85 per cent. against 91 last year. The estimate for food-crops and non-food-crops taken together amounts to 87 per cent. against 97 per cent. estimated by the local officers in 1898-99. As it seems probable that the effects of the heavy rain and hail in Bihar have in some cases been exaggerated, and that in a few other cases also the outturn has been under-estimated, it may be anticipated that the outturn of the rabi crops of these provinces will amount to about 90 per cent. of a normal crop.

The normal area under wheat has been revised. The area cultivated this year has contracted owing to want of rain at the time of sowing. In the Contai subdivision the sugarcane crop has suffered from disease.

The increase in area under boro or summer rice is due to the fact that some lands previously used for winter paddy in the Howrah and Tintaria subdivisions were flooded in the last rainy season, and were afterwards sown with boro rice. The recent sleet and hail have damaged the rabi crops a little.

It is probable that the output in this district has been underestimated.

The decrease in area and output of rabbi crops is due to want of sufficient moisture after the rainy season and to unfavourable rain and hailstorms in the middle of January.

The figures for opium have been furnished by the Opium Department.

Fodder is generally sufficient, but water is reported to be failing in Angul and the Chuadanga subdivision of Nadia. The price of rice has fallen slightly in 10 districts and risen in 6. On the whole it is stationary with a slight downward tendency, most marked in the Chota Nagpur Division. Cattle-disease is reported from some districts. Test-works are open in Angul, Puri, Hazaribagh, Ranchi, and Palamau, but the numbers attending are small.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 1·0 lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew Standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beakley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following revised draft of a Notification, which it is proposed to issue in exercise of the powers conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), is published for the information of all persons likely to be affected thereby, and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration by the Governor General in Council on or after the 1st June 1900.

“6. Application of the test to viscous fluids or preparations, such as solutions of India-rubber in mineral naphtha, or thick paint made with that material:—

About a teaspoonful of the substance to be tested is placed in the cup, and the cover fitted with a thermometer is put on.

The cup thus prepared for the test is then cooled down until the thermometer indicates a temperature of 50° F. This may be accomplished either by placing the prepared cup in a refrigerator, or by immersing it up to its projecting collar in water, which is maintained at a sufficiently low temperature until the result specified has been obtained.

The prepared cup thus cooled is then transferred to the water bath, the temperature of which has previously been raised to 76° F. (The scale of the thermometer in the water bath should range from 60° to 100° F.)

The test is then applied as described in section 4 of this part. If no flash has taken place when the temperature in the cup has reached 75° the test need not be continued.

The temperature at which the flash occurs is the observed flashing point of the substance and, subject to correction of atmospheric pressure as prescribed in the Act, is the true flashing point."

RECOMMENDATION TO BE MADE BY THE DISTRICT BOARDS OF THE ORISSA DIVISION FOR THE NOMINATION OF A MEMBER TO THE BENGAL LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th April 1900.

THE appointment of the Hon'ble Raja Shashi Shakhareswar Roy Bahadur, of Tahirpur, who was appointed to be a member of the Bengal Legislative Council as the representative of the District Boards of the Rajshahi Division, will expire on the 16th June 1900. According to the rotation sketched in paragraph 5 of the Resolution of this Government dated the 25th March 1893, it will be the turn of the District Boards of the Orissa Division to recommend a person for nomination to the Council in order to fill the vacancy. The necessary notification will, therefore, now be published in the Calcutta Gazette specifying the District Boards from which a recommendation will be made to the Lieutenant-Governor for nomination to the seat. Each District Board will elect one representative only, and he will be entitled to exercise all the votes of the body which he represents.

2. The following statement shows the District Boards which will send delegates to vote for a person to be recommended for the vacant seat, and the number of votes assigned to them according to the scale shown in paragraph 5 of the Resolution of this Government, No. 2307A., dated the 31st March 1897. The ordinary income taken is that for 1898-99:—

Division.	District Board.	Ordinary income Rs.	Number of votes to be recorded by the re- presentatives.
Orissa	Cuttack	1,14,959	2
	Balasore	71,989	1
	Puri	56,706	1

3. Under Rule IV of the Regulations framed by the Governor-General in Council with the sanction of the Secretary of State under section 1 (4) of the Indian Councils Act, 1892, for Bengal, the Lieutenant-Governor now desires that the Commissioner of the Orissa Division will at once address the Chairmen of the District Boards enumerated in the above list, requesting them to convene a special meeting of their Board at which one member of the Board may be selected to represent them for the purpose of making the recommendation for the seat in Council. The name of the representative so selected must be reported at once by the Chairman to the Commissioner of the Division.

4. The period of two months laid down in Rule VII of the Regulations as that within which a recommendation shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor will run from the date on which the Commissioner of the Division issues his request to the Chairmen of the District Boards.

5. As soon as the representatives have been selected, they will be called upon by the Commissioner of the Division to meet together on an early and convenient date, with special reference to the limit of time imposed under Rule VII of the Regulations, and at such convenient place as he may specify, for the purpose of electing, by a majority of votes, a person whom they will recommend to the Lieutenant-Governor to be nominated as a member of the Council. The names of all candidates put forward at such meeting shall be duly proposed by one of the representatives present. The election shall be by ballot, and the person elected must obtain a majority of the votes of the representatives present. If on the occasion of the first ballot an absolute majority is not obtained, the candidate who obtains the least number of votes shall be withdrawn from the election, and another ballot shall then be held for the remaining candidates, and so on, until an absolute majority is obtained. In the event of a tie occurring at any stage, candidates shall draw lots.

6. The electoral representatives present at this meeting shall elect one of themselves to be Chairman, and he shall preside and be responsible for the fair and proper exercise of the ballot vote.

7. The Chairman of the meeting shall without delay report to the Commissioner of the Division the name of the person elected, with the number of votes obtained, and any other information which it may appear desirable to communicate, and on behalf of the meeting shall recommend to the Lieutenant-Governor to nominate for the Council the person so elected. The Commissioner shall submit the report from the Chairman of the meeting, with any observations he may wish to add, to the Chief Secretary to Government, by whom the recommendations will be submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor.

8. Attention is drawn to the following Rule VI of the Regulations which have been framed by the Governor-General in Council and Secretary of State:—

VI.—It shall be a condition in the case of any person to be recommended by a Municipal Corporation, or group of Municipal Corporations, that he shall be a person ordinarily resident within the municipality or the district in which it is situated, or in some one of the municipalities constituting the group or of the districts in which they are situated. A similar condition shall also apply to persons to be recommended by District Boards.

Under this rule it is not necessary that persons recommended shall be members of any District Board concerned, but they must be ordinarily resident within the Division from which the recommendation is made. Subject to this condition, the rules declare no limit of qualification, and it is left to the representatives to recommend a person under Rule V (c) according to the majority of their votes.

9. It is desirable that the subsidiary arrangements now sanctioned shall, as far as possible, be given effect to by the District Boards concerned with the minimum of official interference. The Divisional Commissioner and the District Magistrates will, of course, afford any assistance which may be required, and will do their utmost to facilitate the smooth working of the elections; but Government officers are forbidden to take part, directly or indirectly, in the election by canvassing, influencing votes, or otherwise interfering with the free choice of the District Boards. No indication should be given by any official member of any of the District Boards concerned as to the manner in which he himself intends to vote.

ORDERED that a copy of this Resolution be furnished to the Commissioner of the Orissa Division for information and guidance, and for communication to the District Boards in his Division.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH 1900.

DURING the early part of March fine settled weather generally prevailed over the province and the Bay with winds variable in direction and below normal strength. For a few days the cold season distribution of pressure, with westerly or north-westerly winds, was restored, and temperature was in consequence below the normal by several degrees at that time. Owing to the variable conditions accompanying the change from southerly to northerly winds, a few local storms with light scattered rainfall occurred in the south-western districts, mostly in Orissa and the south of Chota Nagpur, but the falls were in all cases so light that they scarcely influenced the total fall for the month.

During the latter half of the month weather underwent a marked change, and became unsettled to an exceptional extent. This exceptional character was not so much in the severity of the disturbance, but in the fact that it continued with little intermission till the end of the month. Very little rain fell in Bihar or in Chota Nagpur. Towards the east, however, rainfall increased in amount. It was practically normal in East Bengal and was heavy in Assam, especially in the south. Silchar received more than 12, Sibsagar and Dhubri more than 4, while the average fall in East Bengal was 2·5 inches. The only other average fall of more than 1 inch was 1·42 inches in Orissa.

While pressure remained low over the province during the latter half of the month, the gradient was steep over the north of the Bay, and strong winds prevailed in the north-west angle. Temperature was generally above the normal, so that, though there was a relatively cool period earlier in the month, the mean temperature for the whole month was above the normal in all divisions. Excess in Orissa was about 1°, in Bengal Proper and Bihar between 1°·5 and 2°, and in Chota Nagpur more than 3°. In Assam, where rainfall was more heavy, there was cool weather, and average defect of 1°.

At the beginning of the month the pressure distribution was uniform over the whole area, but somewhat higher over the Bay than over the province, the lowest readings being in Bihar. The difference from the normal was small at all stations, and comparatively cool weather with light southerly winds prevailed. As pressure was falling moderately in the west of the province, there was some appearance of an approaching depression which was shown in a very irregular form over the central districts on the 2nd after a continued moderate fall of pressure. On the 3rd pressure rose in the north-east, and the gradient became steep in Bihar with north-easterly winds and an irregular cyclonic circulation over the western districts. But these changes were of no importance, as the shallow depression moved eastward without influencing the general weather conditions to any noticeable extent. The brisk rise of pressure which followed continued with slight interruptions till the 11th, when readings were highest in the west of Bihar and lowest in the south of Burma, and northerly winds prevailed over the whole area.

The light scattered showers which fell during these days in Lower Bengal and Orissa were probably due to the interaction of the light variable winds following the irregular pressure changes. The showers on the 11th are most difficult to account for otherwise because pressure was steadily, though slowly, rising about that time and the prevailing directions were northerly, circumstances which are rarely attended by local disturbances of any kind.

With the northerly winds temperature fell, and was generally in defect by variable amounts up to 4°. After the fall in pressure began on the 12th, winds became southerly and temperature rose. The change of pressure was most rapid on the 14th, when the fall varied from ·07 inch in the south-east to ·15 inch in the west of Bihar, but the total fall in the west of the province between the 12th and 14th was very little under ·3 inch. The pressure distribution which then developed continued with little modification for some days. The most noticeable features were great uniformity over the Bay, except in the north, and a steep gradient over the province. The isobars ran from north to south, and strongish southerly or south-easterly winds prevailed in Bengal Proper. Towards the west they were northerly and at times westerly, and with this cyclonic arrangement thunderstorms occurred with scattered rainfall.

Showers began in North Bengal about the 17th, and continued to be fairly general, though not heavy, till the 21st or 22nd, when they became more general, especially in East Bengal. The heaviest rainfall of the month was in Noakhali and Chittagong on the 22nd, when many of the registering stations received 1 and some more than 2 inches.

The changes of pressure about the 20th showed that a shallow depression crossed the province at that time, and the temperature changes show that the rainfall began in the north-east and spread south-westward. On the 19th temperature was below the normal in Assam only; on the 20th the area of relatively low temperature included North Bengal, and on the 21st it had extended to East Bengal, while on the last date there was a recovery in Assam. Throughout high temperature continued unchanged in the west of the province.

Pressure rose briskly on the 22nd, and the area of lowest readings closed up towards the hills. Westerly winds advanced eastward and became general over the province. Rainfall ceased, but only for a day or two, as showers were again fairly general in Bengal Proper between the 26th and 28th. Pressure was unsteady during those days, and there was an exceptionally rapid rise on the 26th, which appears to have begun in the north-east and caused a shallow depression over the central districts. This depression was well marked on the 27th, and was causing general cyclonic winds, though of only moderate strength. Readings varied from 30·07 inches at Sibsagar to less than 29·95 inches at some of the central stations, showing a steep gradient over Assam and North Bengal. A rapid fall of pressure followed on the 28th, and the distribution was then normal.

The fall in temperature about that time was barely noticeable, as only a few stations in the south-west of the province and some towards the east recorded mean temperatures below the normal. The low temperature in the south-west was probably due to the rainfall in Orissa and the south of Chota Nagpur, where it was more continuous than in other parts of the province. It was of daily occurrence in Orissa, though not general, from the 22nd to the 29th, and the falls were at times fairly heavy; the largest amount was 1·5 inches at Balasore on the 28th.

During the closing days of the month there was still a slight depression over the province, and a steep gradient over the eastern districts, but rainfall had almost entirely ceased.

Pressure.—As stated above, pressure changes were small and of little importance during the early part of the month, but were large at times during the latter half. A shallow depression remained fairly steady over the central districts from day to day with a steep gradient towards the east and south. The means for the month are almost normal, there being a small excess in North Bengal and Chota Nagpur and a small defect elsewhere.

Temperature was low for a short time about the end of the first week, when northerly winds were general, and occasionally for short intervals after thunderstorms in the latter part of the month. The variation from the normal in maximum temperature for the whole month varies from excess of 4° in Chota Nagpur to defect of 2° in Assam. Mean minimum readings were more uniformly high and by about 2°. Average excess for the various divisions varied from excess of 3°·4 in Chota Nagpur to 1° in Orissa. In Assam there was defect of about 1°.

Rainfall was much lighter than usual in March, except in Orissa and East Bengal, which received fairly frequent and in some cases heavy showers towards the end of the month. In the former rather more than the normal amount fell, and in the latter almost exactly the normal 2·5 inches. Bihar was almost entirely rainless, and in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal there was only about a quarter of the normal, while in North Bengal there was rather more than half.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of March 1900:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beekley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SANITARY MARITIME ORDINANCE, No. 8.

The Minister of the Interior:—

With a view to according to Navigation and Commerce all the facilities compatible with the exigencies of the sanitary service, and especially with the object of avoiding delay in the admission to free pratique of steamers, which, though having a clean bill of health, have to undergo the doctor's visit and disinfection for the sole reason that they come from ports infected with bubonic plague;

With reference to Law No. 5849 (Series 3A) of December 22nd, 1888, on the protection of public health and hygiene;

DECREES:

Article 1.

On steamers coming from places which are declared to be infected with bubonic plague and bound for Italian ports, a doctor will be embarked, nominated, as occasion arises, by this Ministry, when a formal request is made by the various owners and captains.

Article 2.

The said doctor is charged with the general supervision on board during the passage; and, during the twenty-four hours which precede the arrival of the steamer in an Italian port, he must satisfy himself that the disinfection of soiled objects of personal and domestic use has been carried out, and he will proceed to medically examine all the persons on board.

Article 3.

He is further bound, on the arrival of the steamer, to present to the Port Authorities his written declaration indicating the hygienic and sanitary conditions on board as well as any steps in the way of treatment that should be taken. Should everything be declared to be in perfect order, the steamer, in respect of its sanitary condition, will be forthwith admitted to free pratique: if, on the other hand, anything abnormal is reported on board, the steamer will be submitted to such measures as are prescribed for various cases by the Sanitary Maritime Ordinances at present in force.

Article 4.

NOTIFICATION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE following revised draft of a Notification, which it is proposed to issue in exercise of the powers conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), is published for the information of all persons likely to be affected thereby, and notice is hereby given that the said draft will be taken into consideration by the Governor General in Council on or after the 1st June 1900.

2. Any objection or suggestion, which may be received from any person with respect to the draft before the date aforesaid, will be considered by the Governor General in Council.

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

In exercise of the power conferred by section 4, sub-section (1), of the Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following addition be made to Part III of the first schedule to the said Act:—

“6. Application of the test to viscous fluids or preparations, such as solutions of India-rubber in mineral naphtha, or thick paint made with that material:—

About a teaspoonful of the substance to be tested is placed in the cup, and the cover fitted with a thermometer is put on.

The cup thus prepared for the test is then cooled down until the thermometer indicates a temperature of 50° F. This may be accomplished either by placing the prepared cup in a refrigerator, or by immersing it up to its projecting collar in water, which is maintained at a sufficiently low temperature until the result specified has been obtained.

The prepared cup thus cooled is then transferred to the water bath, the temperature of which has previously been raised to 76° F. (The scale of the thermometer in the water bath should range from 60° to 120° F.)

The test is then applied as described in section 4 of this part. If no flash has taken place when the temperature in the cup has reached 75° the test need not be continued.

The temperature at which the flash occurs is the observed flashing point of the substance and, subject to correction of atmospheric pressure as prescribed in the Act, is the true flashing point.”

UPPER CLASS.

For admission to this class, an applicant must have one of the following qualifications:—

- (i) He must have passed the F.E. examination of the Calcutta University and be under 23 years of age, but no student will be allowed to join the Agricultural class after the expiration of five years from admission into the Engineering College.
- (ii) He must have passed the B.A. examination of the Calcutta University by the B Course, or possess other sufficient educational qualifications, be under 23 years of age, and in addition have received a nomination from the Bengal Government.
- (iii) He must have had a general education qualifying him to follow the instruction in the Upper Agricultural class, and must also receive a nomination from Government for admission as a special student. To be eligible for a nomination under this rule, a candidate must either have landed property of his own, or be recommended by some influential landholder who desires to train him to take part in the management of his estate, or he must otherwise satisfy Government that he intends to make practical use of his agricultural training. Students entering under this rule will be termed Special Agricultural students. They will not be subject to any maximum limit of age, but will not be entitled to the privileges conferred on the passed students under rules 11 and 12, even though they should obtain fully signed diplomas in due course after passing the necessary examinations.

Every candidate for admission to this Department must apply in writing to the Principal not later than the 14th July. The form of application is given in Appendix A. In the event of the form not being properly filled up and accompanied by the necessary certificates, no notice will be taken of the application.

The number to be nominated each year will depend on the accommodation available.

Every applicant, not already a student of the College, must undergo a medical examination by the College Surgeon before admission to this Department. If this officer's report is unsatisfactory, the applicant will not be admitted.

The session begins on the 5th November. The course of instruction in the Upper Agricultural class will extend over two years.

Senior scholarships held by students when passing the F.E. examination are tenable in the Agricultural Department.

One graduate scholarship of Rs. 30 a month, tenable for one year, will be awarded on the result of the examination held at the end of the first academic year.

Two appointments annually are assigned to students holding a fully signed diploma: one in the Provincial Executive Service and one in the Subordinate Executive Service. The right of selection for this appointment will rest with Government, and the students who gained the highest marks at the examination for diplomas will not necessarily be selected.

Holders of fully signed Agricultural diplomas, who do not get the guaranteed appointments referred to in rule 11, but who wish to compete for the examination for admission to the Provincial, Subordinate Executive and Opium Services, may submit their names through the Principal to Government for nominations. These applications for nominations will be considered, provided the applicants appear to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor to be otherwise suitable for admission to these services.

Each student in the Upper Agricultural Department will be required to pay an admission fee of Rs. 10.

F.E.'s who elect to join the Agricultural Department immediately after passing the F.E. examination are exempted from the payment of this fee, as their names are already borne on the College books.

For the present no tuition fees will be charged to students in the Agricultural Department, except in the case of those joining as special students under rule 3 (iii). The tuition fees for these students will be Rs. 8 a month.

Nominations.

Applicants for admission who require nominations under rule 3 (ii) and (iii) will apply for nominations through the Principal. The form of application for nomination is given in Appendix C.

Further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

Letter from the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, No. 1248, dated the 20th March 1900.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor-General in Council has had under his consideration a case which occurred in August last in the Saran district, of which Chapra is the head-quarters, and which has attracted much public attention and comment. The salient facts, about which there seems to be little or no dispute, are briefly summarized below. At the time of their occurrence, Mr. Twidell, an officer of not quite five years' standing, was temporarily officiating as Magistrate and Collector of the district. Mr. Bradley, an officer of about the same service, was his District Superintendent of Police, and had for his assistant Mr. Corbett, a probationer, who had been for less than two years in the department. Mr. Simkins was the District Engineer. On the district staff was Maulvi Zakir Hossein, a Deputy Magistrate of 27 years' standing.

2. On the 19th August Mr. Corbett and Mr. Simkins went out to the village of Phulwaria, in order to supervise and obtain labour for the repair of certain embankments which protect the surrounding country from dangerous and destructive floods, and the responsibility for maintaining which lies upon the local landholders. In the village they met one Narsingh Singh, a police constable, on sick leave from Jalpaiguri. When required to assist the authorities, this man was insolent to Mr. Corbett, who assaulted him slightly. Narsingh Singh then ran at Mr. Corbett, who knocked him down in self-defence. The man then called upon the villagers, of whom a considerable number were standing round, to help him (lathi chalo), upon which Mr. Corbett thrashed him severely while he was down, and Mr. Simkins gave him several cuts with his cane. One of the villagers threatened Mr. Simkins with a lathi, but was disarmed by him.

3. On the next morning, which was a Sunday, Narsingh Singh attended at the Chapra hospital to be treated as an out-patient for a certain disease. The Civil Surgeon noticed that he had two black eyes, and, upon asking how he got them, was told that he had been beaten by the Assistant District Superintendent of Police. It appears that the occurrence of the previous day had been discussed in the station; and after leaving the hospital, the Civil Surgeon mentioned to both Mr. Corbett and Mr. Bradley that "Corbett's friend" was in the station. Mr. Bradley immediately sent an Inspector to find the man; but meanwhile Mr. Corbett had himself gone to the hospital, and found Narsingh Singh, whom he brought to Bradley's house. There Mr. Bradley gave him his choice between resigning and being prosecuted; and on his refusing to resign, the two police officers took him off to Mr. Twidell's house, where, after consultation with the latter, Mr. Corbett lodged a formal complaint against him under section 353, Indian Penal Code, of assault to deter a public servant from the discharge of his duty, a non-compoundable but bailable offence, for which the police may arrest without warrant. Mr. Twidell accepted the complaint and directed a prosecution, and Narsingh Singh was forthwith placed in confinement. Before the formal complaint was presented, Mr. Bradley had again asked Narsingh Singh whether he would resign, and the latter had agreed to do so; but Mr. Bradley then refused to accept his resignation.

4. Narsingh Singh was tried by Maulvi Zakir Hossein, and eventually convicted of abetment of simple assault (section 352), and of insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (section 504), and sentenced to two months' rigorous imprisonment. At one stage of the trial Mr. Bradley was allowed to assist in the prosecution while sitting on the Bench; and the Deputy Magistrate twice consulted the District Magistrate regarding its conduct, on one occasion in consultation with Mr. Bradley also. Narsingh Singh appealed to the Sessions Judge, Mr. Pennell, and his counsel filed, together with his appeal, an affidavit containing serious allegations against the officers concerned with regard to their conduct in the case. Mr. Pennell called upon Mr. Twidell and, through him, upon Maulvi Zakir Hossein, for an explanation in respect of these allegations. Mr. Twidell declined to submit any explanation; and thereupon Mr. Pennell summoned Messrs. Twidell, Bradley, Corbett, and Simkins, the Maulvi and the Civil Surgeon, as witnesses under section 428 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Finally, he accepted the appeal, quashed the conviction, and set aside the sentence. And in his judgment he commented at great length and with great severity upon the conduct of all concerned.

5. The Government of Bengal then took up the matter. The conclusions at which His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor arrived, and the action which he took, are set forth in the following extracts from the second letter read in the preamble:—

“Mr. Pennell's strictures on the conduct of the officers are substantially as follow:—

- (1) that Mr. Corbett did not receive from Narsingh Singh provocation justifying the violence which he used;
- (2) that the prosecution of Narsingh Singh was instituted because it was feared that he would otherwise himself proceed criminally against Messrs. Corbett and Simkins;
- (3) that Mr. Twidell very improperly interfered by repeatedly discussing the case against Narsingh Singh with Maulvi Zakir Hossein in the course of the trial; and
- (4) that Maulvi Zakir Hossein permitted himself to be influenced by Mr. Twidell, and convicted Narsingh Singh on entirely inadequate grounds.

“Both Mr. Twidell and Maulvi Zakir Hossein have asserted their innocence of any improper motive throughout the proceedings in which they were concerned. It is unnecessary to refer to their explanations in detail or to analyse the evidence on which the comments of the Sessions Judge were based. The Lieutenant-Governor's opinion on the various points is clear, and I am now to state it for the information of the Government of India. The orders issued by Mr. Twidell for the repair of the embankments were dictated by a laudable desire on the part of a district officer to prevent the risk of inundations, which would have caused serious loss to the people. It lay on the zamindars and villagers to do what was needed to strengthen the embankments, any wages required for work done being payable by the zamindars, and the deputation of Messrs. Corbett and Simkins to the spot to induce the people to assist was legitimate. The Lieutenant-Governor considers, however, that in the altercation and fracas which took place with Narsingh Singh Mr. Corbett was seriously to blame. He was hasty in first striking the man, and subsequently gave him a severe beating. The man was in a bad state of health, and His Honour is unable to accept the plea that the provocation he gave in any manner justified the treatment to which he was subjected. With regard to the prosecution instituted against Narsingh Singh, the Lieutenant-Governor condemns the conduct of Messrs. Corbett and Bradley, and of Mr. Twidell in particular. Mr. Twidell acted with extreme want of judgment and impropriety in ordering the prosecution, being aware specially that Narsingh Singh had been beaten for his alleged opposition to Messrs. Corbett and Simkins. In the course of the trial also Mr. Twidell's action was open to most serious comment. Subordinate Magistrates may sometimes seek the advice of the District Magistrates in difficult cases, while preserving their own judicial independence. Such consultations between judicial officers are presumably not unknown even in higher Courts. In the present case, however, Mr. Twidell had himself directly ordered the prosecution, and the impropriety of his entering into any discussion of the case with the Deputy Magistrate should have been patent to him. As regards Maulvi Zakir Hossein, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that his conduct of the trial betrayed lamentable weakness of judgment and character. The conviction of Narsingh Singh was bad, and the sentence passed altogether excessive for the offence charged. Mr. Bradley had a smaller share in the case than the officers already named, but the Lieutenant-Governor regards him also as deserving of censure for aiding in the institution of the prosecution against Narsingh Singh and for taking an unnecessarily prominent part in the conduct of the prosecution during the trial.

“The Lieutenant-Governor greatly regrets that the officers of the Saran district should, by their proceedings in this case, have brought themselves under the condemnation which must thus be passed upon them. Serious notice of their conduct is necessary, and His Honour has issued the following orders. Mr. Twidell will be barred from promotion to an Officiating Magistrate-Collectorship for one year. Mr. Corbett, who has become entitled to confirmation as an Assistant Superintendent of Police of the second grade, on completely passing the departmental examinations, will not be confirmed for the same period. An expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's severe displeasure will be conveyed to Mr. Bradley: and Maulvi Zakir Hossein will also be admonished. The latter is an old officer who has hitherto borne a blameless reputation."

6. As soon as Mr. Pennell's judgment was brought to the notice of the Government of India, they requested the Bengal Government to furnish them with a full report upon the case. When that report was received, it appeared that the matter had not been completely dealt with, inasmuch as the action of all the parties concerned had not been equally considered. With regard to the judgment of the Sessions Judge, they thought it desirable to invite the opinion of the High Court of Calcutta and to enquire whether the Honourable Judges contemplated taking any action with regard to it. The Honourable Court has now replied that it "is of opinion that certain passages in the judgment are expressed in terms which the Judges cannot but regard as intemperate, and conspicuously wanting in that sense of dignity and self-restraint which ought to characterize judicial utterances," and that an expression of the disapproval of the Court has been communicated to Mr. Pennell.

7. The Governor-General in Council regards this case as one of unusual importance. It exemplifies in an aggravated, but typical, form several evils which from time to time force themselves upon the attention of Government, and which it is upon every ground of the utmost importance to restrain. The action of the executive and of the judicial officers has conduced to give to the facts a notoriety so great as to fall little short of a scandal, and to render it desirable that the Supreme Government should itself deal with the matter.

8. With regard to the fracas that occurred on the 19th August, the Governor-General in Council concurs in the conclusions of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor. Whatever the provocation received, Mr. Corbett's action in first assaulting Narsingh Singh was undignified and improper. And if, as appears to have been the case, he knocked him down in self-defence, his conduct in severely thrashing a man who lay at his mercy was lacking in any justification. In judging of his conduct, moreover, it is impossible to forget the fact that he was an English officer of Government; and that the position of such officers imposes upon them a very special responsibility towards the inhabitants of the country, in whose eyes they represent, each according to his degree, the Government of Her Majesty. It is incumbent upon any one so placed to exercise a very special self-restraint in his dealings with the people, and it is necessary that he should be judged in such matters by a specially strict standard.

9. But it is the proceedings which followed after the quarrel of the 19th August that constitute the really serious element in the case. On the 19th a very young officer lost his temper and his judgment, and thrashed a man who had been insolent to him and had attempted to attack him. On the 20th, if the conclusions of the Judge who heard Narsingh Singh's appeal are to be accepted, the Chief Magistrate of the district conspired with his two police officers to screen Mr. Corbett from the consequences of his fault, by prosecuting the man whom the latter had beaten for what was at most a merely technical offence, and for which ample, if not excessive, punishment had already been inflicted; while at a later stage, the District Magistrate and District Superintendent of Police brought improper influence to bear upon the Subordinate Magistrate who was trying the case. No more serious charge could be laid at the door of the officers charged with the administration of criminal police and justice in a district. The Governor-General in Council has therefore examined and considered the facts with the most scrupulous care, and the most anxious desire to do no injustice to any of the parties concerned; and the more so, because he gathers from the Lieutenant-Governor's silence on the point, that His Honour does not accept Mr. Pennell's conclusions, at any rate as to the conspiracy.

10. The result of this examination has been to leave upon the mind of the Governor-General in Council the impression that Messrs. Bradley and Corbett were not so much animated in laying a complaint against Narsingh Singh by a desire to vindicate their outraged authority or to uphold the discipline of the police force, as they were by a desire to put further pressure upon Narsingh

Singh. Such conduct on their part amounted, in the opinion of the Governor-General in Council, to little short of persecution, and was a flagrant abuse of the authority with which as police officers they were entrusted.

11. As regards Mr. Twidell's part in the matter, Mr. Pennell's assertion that he was a party to a conspiracy in order to shield his friends, would, if it were accepted, involve a culpability on his part by so much greater than theirs as his office and responsibilities were higher. The circumstances are not free from doubt. But the Governor-General in Council, while holding that Mr. Twidell's conduct was both unwise and improper, is prepared to believe that in directing the prosecution he acted in good faith.

12. His subsequent action, in advising the Deputy Magistrate as to the conduct of the case, was unfortunately not less indiscreet. The Governor-General in Council agrees with His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in thinking that Subordinate Magistrates may properly and usefully seek the advice of the District Magistrate on questions arising in cases that are before them, without in any way forfeiting or impairing their judicial independence. But it is essential that the District Magistrate should scrupulously abstain from such consultation, whenever there is possible room for the suggestion that any personal element may colour his advice. The question of the union of judicial and executive functions is now under the consideration of the Government of India, and is one upon which much discussion has already been expended. It will be conceded, however, by all parties that when the two functions are united in the same hands it behoves those who exercise them to abstain, not only from any abuse, but also from any semblance of abuse, of the powers thus conferred upon them, and to avoid, with the most scrupulous care, any action that may give reasonable ground for the allegation that the objects of the executive are improperly permitted to influence the independence of the judicial branch of the administration. Both branches have one common object—the good government of the country, and the peace and prosperity of the people; and it is regrettable that there should be either confusion or collision of functions in aiming at this end.

13. The Government of India do not propose to interfere with the orders which the Bengal Government have passed in the case of the executive officers concerned. The punishment inflicted, if not adequate to the offence as it is regarded by the Governor-General in Council, is at least substantial. And His Excellency in Council cannot but regard the lamentable occurrence which he has been discussing, as in some degree due to the fact that there was no officer of age and experience present in the district staff, whose more mature judgment might have prevented them. That this was so is explained by the Bengal Government to have been due partly to an unavoidable accident, but mainly to the regrettable shorthandedness of the executive staff, which is now rapidly disappearing in consequence of increased recruitment.

14. There remains the action of Mr. Pennell, the Sessions Judge, who heard Narsingh Singh's appeal. The Governor-General in Council has read with entire agreement the opinion expressed by the High Court upon the nature of Mr. Pennell's judgment. It appears to His Excellency in Council to have been affected by an animus which there was little attempt to conceal. The issue before Mr. Pennell was whether Narsingh Singh had or had not been rightly convicted and sentenced. But it is clear that Mr. Pennell was even more concerned with the conduct of the executive officers than with the guilt or innocence of Narsingh Singh, and that those officers who had been summoned as witnesses virtually occupied the position of accused, though put on oath to criminate themselves. While it is inevitable that a Judge should comment upon the conduct of the executive in so far as it bears upon the issue which he is trying, and while it is proper that he should bring to the notice of superior authority any abuse of power which may seem to him to have taken place, there is yet a corresponding responsibility imposed upon him for the discreet and proper use of the liberty of inquiry and of comment which is essential to the due discharge of judicial duties. In the present case the Governor-General in Council is in concurrence with the High Court in thinking that this discretion was altogether ignored.

15. Such are the conclusions to which the Governor-General in Council has been led regarding a case which, while discreditable to the majority of the officers concerned, has also cast discredit upon the Government to which those officers belong. Cases of such a serious nature are fortunately of rare occurrence; but when they do occur the authority and prestige of Government are materially weakened. It is to be hoped that the public attention which has been called to the present incident, and the notice which the Government of India have been compelled to take of the matter, may prevent the recurrence of similar events in the future, and may be productive of good in vindicating that high standard to which it is essential that British administration in this country should steadily conform.
